(54) FOOT-OPERATED CHAFF CUTTER

(51) A 01F 29/08, 29/10

(57) A foot- operated chaff-cutter (24-28) is used in chopping up straw and other stem based fodder into fine and readily chewable chips. Spring 15 is strained by means of pedal 13. The strain and resilience of spring 15 during pedalling generate oscillations which in turn initiate the yo-yoing of a cutler blade 21. Having a fulcrum at 18, lever 17 enhances and simplifies the straining of spring 15 through hangers 20 and 26. Pedaling to cover angle P starts and concludes the cutting action. Further downward pedalling to cover angle Q stimulates the feed opening 24 through drum roller 8 thus facilitating the towing and feeding of more chaff into the machine. Gentle clockwise jerks on the hand - driven wheel I maintain a continuous Forward flow of the chaff The chaff cutter eliminates the risk of harm using machetes while also speeding up and simplifying the task of cutting up chaff in a cost effective way.

(54) IMPROVED LOW CONSUMPTION KEROSENE BURNER

(57) This is an improved industrial burner that converts kerosene into gas thus extending the volume of liquid fuel. The flame produced is blue with minimum emissions. The burner is designed with a G tube and a nozzle component that can be easily dismantled, scaled and cleaned to enhance combustion and prolonging its life unlike other kerosene burners. The produced flames are directed towards a steel dome which glows, deflect and retain heat for continuous conversion of kerosene into gas.

(54) Title: HYDRO-RAM LIFT PUMP

(57) A hydraulic ram pump or shortly known as a hydram, is a water lifting device that operates automatically and continuously as long as there is a continuous supply of water. It lifts a small fall of water with no other external energy source i.e. it uses water to lift water. A hydram is a simple but unique device that utilizes energy from a stream of water falling from a low head as the driving power to pump part of the water to a head much higher than the supply head. fig 1 Water is a very basic human necessity for use in all aspects of life and more so for use by the household for cooking, washing, feed water for livestock and even for irrigation. The hydro-ram is designed to lift water from lower, usually streams and rivers, to higher grounds where people inhabit and can use water. The hydro-ram benefits the user in many ways: i) Saves on time and energy which would have been spent fetching water from the river. ii) Enable people to have a constant supply of water. iii) Because it is hydro powered, there is no extra cost of transmitting the water from the source to the point of use. iv) The pump is environment friendly because has no harmful emissions nor uses anything else except water.
