The novelty of the container lies in the shape of the container with a rounder shoulder turning inwards towards the bust and waist and then gradually extending outwards the hip. A further distinctive feature of this container are the expressions of several unique ornamental patterns e.g. the horizontal ribs on the two small sides, the horizontal grooves of steadily increasing size on the hip and the vertical grooves at the bottom of the container. The combination of the unique shape and the features of the various patterns give this container a truly unique look.
