(57) Petroleum based products form a high proportion of energy used in transportation, domestic cooking and lighting. Biodiesel is a renewable diesel fuel substitute that can be made by chemically combining any natural oil or fat with an alcohol such as methanol or ethanol through transesterification, bringing the physio-chemical properties of the oils closer to those of the petro-diesel. Feedstock comprises 65-78% of the overall costs of biodiesel production hence biodiesel processors have strong incentives to produce or purchase feedstock at the lowest possible cost. Second generation biofuels are thus gaining interest because of their non-competence with food materials. Jatropha curcas seeds have been rated as one of the best candidate for biodiesel production due to its adaptability to semi-arid lands and its non-edible. However, water, fertilizer and pest control are required for the plant to produce abundant seeds. It also still requires large plantation land areas for maximum oil yields, in addition to good pressing equipment for oil extraction. Waste vegetable oils present an inexpensive raw material for biodiesel production.

(54) THE E-MOBY LOAN.

(51) G 06Q 20/10, 20/16, 20/22, 20/24, 20/32

(57) This is a process of acquiring soft loan via once mobile phone from a universal account called Accumulative Account, this came in place due to high demand by common population to have money always. An accumulative Account is an account created or opened by a financial institution or communication service provider where registered members deposit a specific amount say 2500/= or as per decision by one opening it and where the soft loan is processed from. The operations to The E-Moby loan are as follows; one should register into service by 250/= activate his mobile phone line by 100/= and deposit of one down payment of 2500/= that is refundable and earns an interest on number of time one acquires the soft loan. The percentage of interest depends on the organization that has opened the Accumulative Account for 2500/= one qualifies for a soft loan of 5,000/= and is given 4,500/=; 500/= being processing fee. On repayment the customer pays back 5,000/=. The Accumulative Account is only accessed by two people who are assigned a pin code for security matters. The financial institution and communication service provider the two are allowed to process soft loan for their customers who have applied for on their behalf and then send it to their mobile phone. In short, customer applies the soft loan via either financial institution or service provider then on behalf of him the two having access to Accumulative Account process the loan and load customer phone. Where Agents are involved, they too have to access the Accumulative Account via service provider or financial institution depending on the organization that has authorized him to operate. Coming to security to this, for employed employment will be security also other details like that applied to non employed should apply incase one is sacked. For non-employed- registration of their own is required, I.D. and two referees in addition to that when applying he or she has to do it him or herself by use of secret pin code. Because the service is as a saving some how the mobile phone number will be used as his account and all transactions done records are kept to determine interest to the customer for instance any time he processes a soft loan and repays a percentage set is calculated and deposited to Accumulative Account under his details. This will encourage more customers to the service and security too. On termination of a customer from service the deposit his interest earned is given back to him or her, but he or she has to apply for termination via agent and then immediate process for his dues are started by Agent forwarding the matter to the two organizations depending which agent the customer approached for termination.

(51) G 06Q 90/00, H 04M 3/42, 3/487

(54) OTHROPEADIC SADDLE

(51)

(57) The present invention 100 is a othropeadic saddle for patients with a plastered leg, it is well recognized that people with a plastered leg are forced to wear polythene bags or socks to protect and prevent the plaster from dirt as well as contamination while visiting the toilet, walking in muddy or dusty areas. Our observation is that this act of wearing either polythene or socks or not wearing anything at all is very un hygienic in itself considering that one is expected not to wash the affected part of the leg and also go to bed with the same. This reasons among others is what motivated us to invent this saddle which is ideal with the said condition as it is soft and very light hence making it easy to wear and comfortable to the wearer. However considerable effort in the art to further the improvement would be desirable in future.

The rechargeable batteries power an array of light emitting diodes(LEDs) that are arranged on a circular printed circuit panel in alternation with SMD type resistors.

A Global System for Mobile Communications (GSM) CONTROL module that has a slot to insert a SIM card is connected between the batteries and the LEDs and is used to put ON and OFF the LEDs. A cone shaped reflector is attached on the top part of the housing from the inside to ensure maximum diffusion of the light from LEDs. The lamp is used in homes that are off grid and in emergency and disaster situations.
