(57) The process of creating wood plastic technology (wPvc) production is similar to the process used in injection molding and extrusion of plastic pipes, straws etc. The key difference in wPvc production is in the ingredients. In production of pvc pipes, rods, straws and moulds the main ingredient is pvc/plastic which is currently widely used in Kenya today using the injection molding or extrusion technology for various shapes. In the production of wPvc we further substitute part of the pvc with agricultural waste such as coconut husks in order to produce a product that is more environmentally sensitive.
