Multi-storey gardening is a promising venture addressing one of the Big 4 agenda items: Food security. The concept addresses optimal land usage while at the same time guaranteeing optimal plant yield. The doch multi-storey garden is designed with 6 storeys using High Density Poly Ethylene (HDPE). The design allows ease of use and reduces the normal farming activities of weeding and use of insecticides. The insect net provides protection against insects, while the micro controller controlled circuit monitors and mains the soil moisture levels at optimal levels. The entire control circuit is powered by a solar photovoltaic system. This set up is versatile and can be adjusted by user on need basis by adding sensors to the controller to monitor other aspects, a pump instead of solenoid incase the water source requires additional pressure.
